An emergency is no time

Membership every Victorian needs

There is every chance that one day you will have to make a call for emergency medical help. We know that because, virtually every minute of every day, Ambulance Victoria responds to a distressed, seriously ill or injured Victorian in need. That's over half a million calls every year.

Your annual membership gives you 100% protection against the cost of world-class emergency treatment and transport services – costs that will be many, many times what you pay for your membership. Join today with the hundreds of thousands of Victorians already protected by Ambulance Victoria membership. It makes financial sense and it's a good feeling.

Protecting yourself from financial pain

Emergency medical transport services are not free. They're not covered by Medicare. If you're not protected, one event that needs paramedic help and transport can cost up to $8,000. In fact, the average cost is around $2,000.

Is it worth taking a potentially crippling financial risk to save the price of a coffee a week?
